

Scenario	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	Helga, the sweet old lady from your neighborhood, had a nice day with her grandchildren, she is really happy afterwards. She stares at you with a smile on her face as you pass her in the park.	Today is the birthday of your aunt Eva's late husband. It has been 7 years since he passed away, but Eva still gets depressed when she thinks about it. You see sadness in her eyes.	Your friend Agnes has anger issues and gets angry really often for long periods of time. One day she comes home from a wild night of Bingo, she looks irritated.	Your sister, Nelly, has had an ordinary day and is now sitting in the living room with a nice cup of tea. She is watching some tv as food is slowly cooking in the kitchen.	Your neighbor Lisa is a widow, and normally has bi-weekly company by her daughter. Her daughter has been sick for some time, so she hasn't been able to visit her elderly mother. Lisa seems lonely as she hasn't seen anyone in a few days.	You and your friend Arend just returned to his car and discover that he got a parking ticket. He starts yelling at the ticket and is obviously very mad.	You and your colleague Nick are standing next to the coffee machine as he tells you about his weekend. He went fishing with some friends, went to Pietje's birthday and even took the car to the carwash.	Your brother Harry just won the grand prize at his local Bingo club and glows with joy as he explains how he saw the last ball roll out of the machine and instantly felt it was his winning number.
Tijdstempel	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?
31-3-2020 17:45:16	Satisfied	compassionate	zovan wow, daar moet ik even uit de buurt blijven	normal	sad	like he is stupid	normal	happy for him
31-3-2020 18:02:10	Happy	Sad	Sad but interested	Neutral/happy	Sad	Upset	Happy	Very happy
2-4-2020 13:51:55	Sad	Sad	Sad and confusing	Happy	Sad	funny but because he is a friend I get angry too	Happy	Proud and happy
2-4-2020 13:52:13	A little creeped out	Sad and dark	Distant	Cosy	Compassionate	I find it funny	Bored	I find it funny
2-4-2020 13:56:33	Normal, a bit happy	It makes me sentimental	A bit irritated too	Nothing	Nothing	Also a bit mad	Nothing special	Very happy for him
2-4-2020 13:57:02	I'd light up a bit as well	I feel sympathy for her	Worried	Doesn't make me feel like anything?	Relatable	A bit frustrated as well	I'd feel good for him	A bit jealous but happy for him
2-4-2020 13:58:07	Happy for her but I think it depends on how the smile looks, if it looks creepy then creepy	Sad for her	Scared she might start to get angry	Neutral, good for her	Might make a chat to make her feel better but its just a neighbor, she might need to visit the local bingo club if your only contact is your daughter	Understanding for his reaction but maybe a little bit irritated, there's nothing you can do about it	Good for him, not really interested in small talk	Good for him? I dunno, maybe little bit jealous but since I am probably not a member its my own fault
2-4-2020 14:03:12	My heart feels warm, I'm happy the old lady is happy and doesnt feel lonely	It hurts me to see her still struggling with something she has no control over.	I get annoyed very fast when people project their emotions onto me, so i get angry at her	nothing	Sad, people shouldn't feel lonely, I'd like to give her some company	He should've parked it legally, so please stop yelling im annoyed	Nice that he had a productive weekend and social life	I feel happy for him
2-4-2020 14:03:23	Happy	Sympathetic	Worried	No specific feeling	Caring	Uncomfortable	Positive	Happy
2-4-2020 14:03:30	Happy	Sad	It doesn't change my feelings, I'll just mind my own business	Relaxed	Bad	Anxious	Good	Happy
2-4-2020 14:22:12	If I don't know her, it will give me anxiety. If I do know her, then it might make me happy, thinking of my family However, this question is strange, I don't stalk my old ladies in my neighbourhood	Sad, but I don't express it	Scared how he would react. But I'm trying to find confidence to help him out	Again, I'm not a stalker But it would make me sick	Wanting to help. But still I'm not a stalker	I'm not going to pay for that	Sounds fun, I dont really care	Happy for him
2-4-2020 14:24:57	Happy.	Sad.	Worried.	Peaceful	Concerned	Irritated	Happy for him	Excited for him
2-4-2020 14:30:32	Uncomfortable	Sad	A little down	Happy	A little sad	Uncomfortable	Happy	Very happy
2-4-2020 14:32:23	Joyful	Emotional	Sad	Satisfied	Sad	Frustrated	Happy	Happy
2-4-2020 14:40:57	Happy	Sad	Normal	Normal	Sad	Also mad	Normal	Happy

Scenario	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	Helga, the sweet old lady from your neighborhood, had a nice day with her grandchildren, she is really happy afterwards. She stares at you with a smile on her face as you pass her in the park.	Today is the birthday of your aunt Eva's late husband. It has been 7 years since he passed away, but Eva still gets depressed when she thinks about it. You see sadness in her eyes.	Your friend Agnes has anger issues and gets angry really often for long periods of time. One day she comes home from a wild night of Bingo, she looks irritated.	Your sister, Nelly, has had an ordinary day and is now sitting in the living room with a nice cup of tea. She is watching some tv as food is slowly cooking in the kitchen.	Your neighbor Lisa is a widow, and normally has bi-weekly company by her daughter. Her daughter has been sick for some time, so she hasn't been able to visit her elderly mother. Lisa seems lonely as she hasn't seen anyone in a few days.	You and your friend Arend just returned to his car and discover that he got a parking ticket. He starts yelling at the ticket and is obviously very mad.	You and your colleague Nick are standing next to the coffee machine as he tells you about his weekend. He went fishing with some friends, went to Pietje's birthday and even took the car to the carwash.	Your brother Harry just won the grand prize at his local Bingo club and glows with joy as he explains how he saw the last ball roll out of the machine and instantly felt it was his winning number.
Tijdstempel	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?
	Pleasant, as her radiating joy shall probably be contagious to me.	Compassionate but with a feeling of helplessness, I would probably recognize myself and how I would act in this scenario.	Slightly annoyed but compassionate about her issues, though I would probably think to myself: "Oh god not this again, getting real tired of it."	Calm and content. Sounds like the calming backdrop you'd see when watching a slice of life anime, listening to lofi beats while chilling or reading a good book near the window on a rainy day.	Lonely and sad: just as Helga's joy was contagious to me, so too are darker/sad feelings. I would probably not undertake action except if I know the neighbour well.	Disappointed that this event will probably set the tone for the rest of the car drive, but I probably can't help smiling and chuckling at the obviously bad situation, and will probably try to reassure him its not that bad.	Happy that he had a nice weekend, but with a hint or jealousy as my weekend probably wasn't as interesting, socially engaging or productive. If this was the case multiple weeks in a row, I'd start to ponder if my life was missing something and if the things I do really do bring me joy.	Irritated that he necessarily has to be so braggly about all of it, especially if he accounts the majestic tale of his prize countless times and if he gets cocky because of it. Nonetheless, I'm happy that he's happy which will probably put a smile on my face as well!
2-4-2020 14:50:37
2-4-2020 14:56:50	Happy	Sad/down	Sad/disappointed	Satisfied	Sad	Surprised/neutral	Neutral	Happy
2-4-2020 15:07:47	Happy	Sad	Concerned	I wouldnt know	Sad	Upset	Nothing in particular	Happy
2-4-2020 15:18:57	Happy	Sad	Scared	Relaxing	Sad	Wronged	Good for him	Happy for him
2-4-2020 16:08:33	Happy	Sympathetic and sad	Confused and worried	Annoyed	Sad	Annoyed and scared	Not interested and annoyed	Joy
2-4-2020 19:30:06	Happy	Worry	Uncomfortable	Relaxed	Wanting to help/visit	Dissappointed that he reacts this way	Relaxed	Happy for him
2-4-2020 20:22:17	content	Big sad	Fucking bingo loser	Calm	melancholy	Glowering	Dreamy	Glowing
2-4-2020 20:28:51	ah hint of happiness overwhelmed by awkwardness	awkward, as to how to approach her about the topic	Amused/interested as to what will happen next	Hungry	Feel sorry for Lisa	Entertained, while considering if he has a bad personality or just a bad day	Entertained/dreadful depending on the quality of his story	Happy for him + entertained/dreadful depending on the quality of his story
2-4-2020 20:29:56	i dont think it would change the way i feel at that point in time, if annything i would be uncomfertable but that would be the same if anyone stares at me	i would be dishartend to know that it would still trouble her	irritated asswel, its never fun to see someone irritated much less when it feels self inflicted	indiferent	i would get sad for her, however i do think that might fade rather quick	annoyed that he vents his anger onto me	indifernt	happy for him, while also jelous

Scenario	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	Helga, the sweet old lady from your neighborhood, had a nice day with her grandchildren, she is really happy afterwards. She stares at you with a smile on her face as you pass her in the park.	Today is the birthday of your aunt Eva's late husband. It has been 7 years since he passed away, but Eva still gets depressed when she thinks about it. You see sadness in her eyes.	Your friend Agnes has anger issues and gets angry really often for long periods of time. One day she comes home from a wild night of Bingo, she looks irritated.	Your sister, Nelly, has had an ordinary day and is now sitting in the living room with a nice cup of tea. She is watching some tv as food is slowly cooking in the kitchen.	Your neighbor Lisa is a widow, and normally has bi-weekly company by her daughter. Her daughter has been sick for some time, so she hasn't been able to visit her elderly mother. Lisa seems lonely as she hasn't seen anyone in a few days.	You and your friend Arend just returned to his car and discover that he got a parking ticket. He starts yelling at the ticket and is obviously very mad.	You and your colleague Nick are standing next to the coffee machine as he tells you about his weekend. He went fishing with some friends, went to Pietje's birthday and even took the car to the carwash.	Your brother Harry just won the grand prize at his local Bingo club and glows with joy as he explains how he saw the last ball roll out of the machine and instantly felt it was his winning number.
Tijdstempel	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?	How does this make you feel?
2-4-2020 21:30:32	Pretty good, especially if I'd know her for a longer period of time. Knowing that the people around me are having a good time would make me happier as well.	It would make me feel sad and a bit uncomfortable. It is hard to see someone suffer, whilst not having a clear way to help them out.	Kind of sad, if someone's irritated it can often be problematic to try and cheer them up. Irritation and anger are emotions which can't really be overcome without effort of the person itself. As an outside person, it might therefore make me less happy as well.	Neutral, in this scenario I wouldn't really feel much.	Concerned, elderly people often don't have much social contact outside their immediate family. Therefore it can be very bad for Lisa's mental health and I would try to visit her to provide some comfort.	Awkward and disappointed, a parking ticket sucks but it is no reason to start yelling aggressively. It would make me feel uncomfortable and decrease my opinion of them by a fair margin.	Relaxed. Having a nice comfortable chat during my break would help me de-stress quite a bit.	Excited and Happy, having your friends and family succeed / be happy in life can make yourself quite happy as well.
3-4-2020 8:18:02	Happy	Sad	Inquisitive but on guard	A bit content	Sad and a bit responsible	Emphatic and a bit funny	Probably unproductive	Happy
3-4-2020 14:55:06	Joyfull	Sad too	Amazed	Thursty and hungry	Emphatic	Angry too	Interested	Joyfull
3-4-2020 15:13:33	Happy	I want to comfort her and I would feel sad at the same time (because my aunt's husband is my uncle)	I would be intrigued and interested in what happened that night	That would really depend on my relationship with my sister and on my mood that particular day	I would feel the need to help my neighborhood in any way	I would stay calm and try to calm down my friend as it's just a parking ticket	I would be interested in what he told me and ask him if he caught a fish and what he got Pietje for his birthday	I would feel happy for him and interested in what he won
3-4-2020 15:55:26	Good	Compassion	Nervous	Relaxt	Sorry	Nervous	Bored	Amazing